First and Only Deputy in Boise County to be Fatally Shot is Now Recognized

Written by Eileen Capson

Boise County -- V. W. Coffin was fatally shot in Boise County while attempting to arrest a man on April 18, 1883. Known by his friends as Walt Coffin, 31, he had spent much of his time prospecting and worked several mines. He had been quickly deputized, after volunteering to help bring in a wanted man. Unfortunately, he was killed soon afterward, in the line of duty.

"National Police Week" begins next week, to honor our fallen officers. On May 13th, a very special Candlelight Vigil will be held in Washington, D.C., recognizing eight additional names of Idaho officers, including that of Walter Coffin.

Recently, it became a mission for Mike Johnson, to pull together the last remaining names of those officers that had not yet been recognized on the National Level in Washington, D.C. As the Idaho Peace Officer Memorial Board President, Johnson was able to track down 8 officers' names that did not yet appear on the National Wall. He was determined to gather the needed signatures from current sheriffs and push the paperwork forward, to make this happen. Boise County's Sheriff, Jim Kaczmarek, was very supportive of this undertaking. Johnson said, "It needed to be done. Those names needed to be honored and now they can be."

Johnson had started out his career in Boise County in 1974, fresh out of high school, and has been the county's Chief Deputy Coroner for the past 20 years. He felt it a personal accomplishment to recognize the only law enforcement officer to ever fall, in the line of duty, in Boise County.

In the process of researching these names, Johnson discovered a mistake on the Idaho Peace Officer Memorial. Although he says it's not easy to correct something once it's written in granite, a "Y" was painstakingly changed to a "V" for Vestal, after Walter Coffin's father.

The "Wood River Times" of Hailey, Idaho, the newspaper where the fallen officer's family was from, spoke of this incident back in 1883. "Walt Coffin was a man who had that species of blind courage sometimes called 'bull courage.' Possessed of great physical strength he knew no fear, evidently imagined that nothing could resist his prowess, and has paid the usual penalty of foolhardiness."

The April 25th, 1883, account stated: "On Thursday, the party arrived in the neighborhood of Cottner's [the suspect] supposed hiding place, and by an agreement between [Deputy Sheriff] Goodall and Coffin, the latter proceeded alone to a cabin where Cottner and a man named Morgan were known to be together." The reason that Coffin gave was that he was acquainted with Morgan, and that this would facilitate the arrest.

Shots were fired. Goodall was out of sight, but came rushing to find Coffin fatally injured and unconscious.

A reward went out for the man that shot Coffin for $1,500, wanted dead or alive.

Morel Mushrooms at the Pioneer Fire is Big Business

Written by Janet Juroch

Boise County -- A presentation of Morel Mushrooms after the Pioneer Fire was made at the Garden Valley District Library featuring Bob Chehey and Genille Steiner of the Southern Idaho Mycological Association. They were discussed foraging for mushrooms safely and answered questions from newbie hunters to the seasoned foragers. John Kidd, Fire Ranger in Lowman and Richard Newton - USFS Emmett Ranger District discussed safety on public land use and permits.

One year after a fire burned area is considered prime mushroom growing potential. Of course Mother Nature can have a say in that also. Prime seasons locally can be in May and June, but with the cooler weather and a wet spring, specialists say the season can change and even find mushrooms growing into August. This year the Forest Service and Law Enforcement are preparing for a big influx of commercial mushroom hunters. The FS has decided to issue 400 commercial permits and keep them in a particular area so it is easier for management and separation from the hobby mushroom hunter.

Commercial permits obtained from the USFS offices are $300 for 30 days in June to fill their buckets. This is a first come first served process. These pickers are also limited to 150 gallons during that time period. John Kidd explained the areas that will be patrolled by law enforcement in order to keep everyone safe and staying in their designated areas. Maps will be available for picking areas.

It is suggested to go where the fire did not burn so hot. "Hot fires", which Richard Newton explained, "is about 90% of the Pioneer Fire, will alter the soil too much for morels to grow." Kidd recommended going to the north side of the South Fork of the Payette River. The fire was not as severe in that area.

Hobbyist mushroom hunters will also have to wait until June to approach the Pioneer fire areas. Personal use hunters are limited to one five gallon bucket per day. Steiner spoke of the highly coveted mushrooms but also stated her preference to NOT hunt in burned areas because of the soot you would have to deal with on your clothing and the mushrooms. She explained, "It is fun to go and pick the mushrooms but the real works is when you get them home and have to deal with them."

Safety concerns and questions are asked about the false morels. "Some non-edible mushrooms contain a carcinogen similar to rocket fuel," said Steiner. Chehey commented that "all mushrooms are edible if they have ridges and pits. Otherwise, they can be hard on the liver." A false morel is a mushroom with a long cap over the stem. A morel is a mushroom that is one continuous cap and stem with ridges and pits. Looking for morels in non-burned areas, according to Steiner, is best found in areas of mixed conifers or grassy areas. Elevation does not seem to matter. Steiner explained, "You can go for a walk in the woods and look for the mushrooms. They are sometimes hard to find, but once you find one, then it gets easier to spot them."

Spring Fling was the Answer to a Long Winter

Written by Janet Juroch

Garden Valley -- Garden Valley Center for the Arts [GVCA] completed another successful Spring Fling. The wind and rain threatened to create a challenge at times, but for the majority of the afternoon it was sunny and cool. Lots of people were walking around town to see the sights or try something new. The occasional smell of barbeque or kettle corn wafted through the air. Music filled the air, which was performed by the students at the pergola in Castle Square, and also by the Dueling Pianos at Two Rivers Grill.

According to the GVCA, the day was busy for everyone. Vendors and merchants were happy with the turnout. Lots of shopping was going on and homemade pies were selling out! Dogs and their owners even had a booth where they could go for a quick analysis of how training could help certain behaviors. Local emergency services were available for questions and showcased their different EMS vehicles. Many people stopped in for tours of the historical Tucker House and museum. People learned of a new Visitor's Center opening with tourist information. The Flea Market was open and very busy. It was a full day to be had.

Idaho X-Sports had a debut of their new summer location at Village Circle by the Market. The Freedom Jump had a long line all day and the bounce castle was a lively place. A campfire ring was setup for people to stay warm, when the cooler winds blew through. Everyone seemed to enjoy this new location. Jason Sawin, General Manager of Idaho X-Sports says they will continue to be opened on Saturdays, until Memorial Day weekend, and then will go to a Friday, Saturday & Sunday schedule throughout the summer. They expect to add even more activities. For our hours of operation, please visit www.idahoXsports.com

X-Sports also showed a custom painted Soap Box Derby Car, which was painted by Rowland's Auto Body Repair. They gave it a test run with several kids to see "how it rolled" along Old Crouch Road. This is a reminder that on July 4th, 2017, Idaho X-Sports Adventure Park is sponsoring the first ever Soap Box Derby Race in Crouch, on the Old Crouch Road from 7-9 pm. X-Sports is looking for corporate sponsors to buy the cars, so kids don't have to. Sawin says, "We need five additional cars so we can have kids lined up to race."

In the evening there was the drawing of winners of the GVCA silent auction fundraiser. These items were on display all day. At the same time, there was the monthly artist gala, which featured Steve Wadner of Oregon and his select artistic timepieces. Clocks are the medium he uses. He has had a simple fascination with time and enjoys exploring unusual facts about time. Wadner appreciated the turnout of people at the gala saying, "There is nothing more delightful than having people come see what you do."

The Garden Valley Center of the Arts wants to thank everyone for coming out to the wonderful Spring Fling, 2017, and all the fundraiser support they received. Steve Wadner's gallery show will run at the CVCA through the month of May. Everyone is invited to visit the gallery to see his amazing clocks.

Basin School Board Candidates

Meet Your Candidates:

Neva Gardner
Basin School District 72
School Board, District 1 Seat

I believe first and foremost that the school board is the watch dog of every child's education with the watchful eye of the community. The quality or lack of can have a lifelong effect on the child, I believe that a lot of time and research needs to be put into every decision that is made for the students. I believe that doing the same thing a District is doing 50 miles away is unhealthy for the school board and students. Decisions need to be made locally and they need to be realistic and useful for every child.

I strongly feel that parents need to be part of the resources the school board uses, they need to be more involved in meetings and planning of their child's education.

It is hard to understand what students need if those who are in charge are not reaching out to those who receive the information. It is a waste of tax dollars to create programs that do not fit the needs of the students without feedback.. It just defeats the intentions of education.

Thank You,
Neva Gardner

I believe the purpose of the school board is to help set the vision and goals of the school district and make decisions on budgets, financial reports, planning, and personnel, to name a few. Along with these duties, I believe a school board trustee should be involved in their community and promote the district in a positive light. As a school board, we must work together to accomplish our goals for both the students and staff.

I personally have been involved with the Basin School District for the last 12 years. In this time I have volunteered in classrooms, for fundraisers and with the athletic programs. I believe in the vision of our district and hope with your vote on May 16th you will entrust me to carry out this vision.

Thank you,
Brandee Kline

According to the National School Board Association the many roles of a school board member are:

- employing the superintendent
- developing and adopting policies, curriculum, and the budget;
- overseeing facilities issues; and
- adopting collective bargaining agreements

One of the most critical aspects in a small community is to ensure that policies, procedures, safety, and curriculum are not compromised. The school board members should be actively engaged in determining that student success is achieved through qualitative measures, and not just quantitative data alone. For those of us who have students in the Idaho City schools, do you know who the school board members are? The school board members are typically the elected voice of the community. They provide the checks and balances for the decisions that directly affect our children's day at school. If parents have concerns, it is the school board members' responsibility to serve effectively and ensure educational success for all.

Brent Adamson
Basin School District 72
School Board, District 2 Seat

The purpose of the School Board in a nutshell is to provide for the health and safety of the children while creating an environment for students to learn as their teachers teach. This is accomplished by a rather long list of individual items like setting the budget, transportation, hiring the Superintendent, setting the calendar for the school year, setting policies for effective instruction and learning, having a vision for education in our community, and – I could go on and on. For each board member, the answer might be slightly different but it should always come down to what is best for the students so they are able to learn and grow.

There are some things that are NOT the purpose of the school board. A board member is powerless unless they are part of a properly called meeting to conduct business for the schools. We may have opinions; but we work together to establish policies and solve problems as a board, then vote and support the decisions of the board. Personal agendas are not a part of being a board member; collaboration is the key to a successful board. We don't 'run' the school—we hire a CEO (the superintendent) to do the daily work and help in the hiring/guiding of administrators to achieve the goals that our district has established. It is never 'OK' to break the chain of command within the district because we are board members and want to fix something or somebody. Our purpose is to work as a board and communicate with the superintendent. We do not set our own standards or force teachers to teach what we want as an individual. Public education is governed by state and federal laws that the board must follow as we govern this district.

A few general concepts which define our purpose that our board uses to govern would include:

- We govern; we do not meddle in the daily work of teachers, food staff, or any of the employees as that is the job of our superintendent. We are elected by the good people in the state of Idaho that reside within the school district boundaries to be the layer of government that knows and abides by the Statues and provides for the education of our children.
- Allocating resources effectively. Setting a budget that is within our financial capability. We are well aware of our financial constraints and seek solutions to keep us current and balanced.

- Develop sound operational policies based on state and federal laws and then ensure they are applied consistently.
- Establishing policies and resources for effective instruction and student learning.
- Hiring a superintendent who is best qualified to accomplish the board's vision.
- Creating, setting, and updating the district's vision and mission.

Reportedly, a Pickup Truck Rolled into the Payette River on Sunday

Written by Eileen Capson
Horseshoe Bend -- On Sunday morning, a pickup truck was reported to have rolled from Highway 55 and had submerged into the Payette River, just north of the Gardena Bridge. There is no release of information as to whom may have been in the vehicle, at this time. When emergency personnel searched the area, nothing could be found of the pickup truck, nor of the individual(s). There is no evidence that someone was able to escape from this accident. Those that were called on to assist in this recovery effort included: Boise County Deputies, the Horseshoe Bend Fire Department, Horseshoe Bend Ambulance and Garden Valley Swift Water Rescue. In addition, volunteers from the Cascade Raft Company joined in the search and looked for several hours downstream, all the way to the Horseshoe Bend dam site.

There was allegedly a call that came into dispatch, reporting a missing person on Sunday night; however, there has been no further information released by the Boise County Sheriff's Office as of Tuesday, May 9th. The water of the Payette is flowing especially high this spring, is very muddy with debris and has dangerous undercurrents. It was stated by law enforcement that the water level may need to go down before the vehicle can be found or positively identified. The Boise County Sheriff's Office is asking the public to keep an eye out while rafting or fishing in the area, and to notify Boise County Dispatch if they notice anything that may be related to this accident. Boise County law enforcement continued to search this area by the Payette River on May 9th.

Fire Season Begins Requiring Burn Permits

Written by Janet Juroch
Boise County -- A reminder that May 10 is beginning of fire season where burning permits for open burning are required until June 30th. No Burn County Ordinance begins July 1 through Oct 20th. Proper burn permits are required for burning vegetation including tree limbs and yard waste. Burn Permits are obtained by contacting your local fire officials at the fire departments. There is no cost to get the permits. Also, you can go online to the Idaho Department of Lands at <http://burnpermits.idaho.gov/> and issue yourself a permit. The permits show the fire officials who has a planned burn. Seeing smoke can easily raise concerns. When neighbors call in seeing smoke, the fire department can then see if that person has their burn permit or if they need to go and address the source of the unknown smoke. The permits do not apply to logging slash or construction debris because they generally need to get a commercial permit for that type of burning.

Remember that it is a Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ) violation if you are burning household trash, even if it is a burn barrel. That affects the air quality. Paper and cardboard is acceptable but other items including plastic, painted boards, treated wood or glued wood. This creates a toxic smoke. DEQ violations cost more money, too. Starting July 1st through October 20th, a "No Burn" policy will be in effect through all of Boise County. There are a few exceptions in the Boise County ordinance. Acceptable burning in designated campsites and inhabited premises where fires are in a permanent barbecue, fire-pit, outdoor fireplace or incinerator and must be a minimum of 10 feet from any combustible material or non-fire resistive vegetation. Though the forest is wet and green right now, Garden Valley Fire Chief John Delvalle reminds everyone that fire season has officially started in Idaho on May 10. The weather can warm up with less moisture than what has been seen lately. It does not take long for vegetation to dry out.

Horseshoe Bend School Hosts Hazmat Exercise for Boise County

Written by Judith Hutton
Director, HSB Ambulance
Horseshoe Bend— This drill required cooperation between multiple organizations including: Boise Fire Department, Boise Hazmat, the 101st Airborne, Sheriff Kaczmarek, our school SRO Robert Hastie, Boise County Emergency Services, the Boise County EOC's, the HSB EMS, and Carter Duke who represented our local Fire Department. A special award for acting goes to our "patients" Brooke Pratt, Sydney Pratt, Hank Ralls, Lindsey Kennedy, Ciara Drake, and Saige Houston; they did a great job. We really appreciated the training opportunity that Dennis Chesnut provided by allowing this drill to occur on school property.

This Drill allowed our emergency services to practice how to respond in a Hazmat or mass casualty scenario. The focus was on patient triage, treatment and transport for the ambulance. It required a great deal of cooperation with the other emergency services that we frequently do not get to work with. This training helps us to be better prepared to respond in a real emergency and to understand how each unit works to coordinate a quick response. We learned a lot and are planning on having the 101st return to continue our training.

Each department would have to speak for themselves as to reaching their stated objectives, so I can not say with certainty how they rated their own performance. The HSB EMS did accomplish their goals for this operation. At the debriefing everyone seemed satisfied that we had achieved a successful drill which benefited each department involved. We all learned something new about ourselves and each other; making cooperation in a real emergency that much more efficient.

I would like to thank everyone who participated in the Hazmat Exercise, it was a great experience. Special thanks to Daryl Riedinger for organizing it. This was a complicated endeavor, that required a lot of communication skills and resources to pull off successfully.

[Daryl Riedinger, Boise Fire Hazmat, said, "The drill went very well. Folks from all the different agencies and disciplines had fun. We were able to put skills we had to use and learn some new ones."]

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor,

I heard a rumor that instantly made me angry. I heard that there would be some 400 immigrant workers coming into and camping at the Idaho City airport for the purpose of commercial picking of Morel Mushrooms. The reason it made me so angry was immigrant workers being brought in to pick our mushroom plus the fact that the Forest Service is giving first chance at our mushrooms to commercial pickers from God knows where.

Now, we all know that the combination of a large forest fire of some 190,000 acres like we had last summer, plus a very wet spring like we're having this spring, means a full bounty of mushrooms which means plenty of mushrooms for everybody, right? Not so fast.

I did a little research on the market. Mushrooms don't grow until the temperature gets hot, such as around June. June 1st. is when the Forest Service will start selling commercial permits. After finding out that a commercial permit is $300.00, good for 30 days, and only one picker per permit, I wasn't quite so angry. Then I did the math. Through my research I found out that the wealthy Asian Market, (China and Japan) is the largest consumers of Morel mushrooms and the selling price in those markets is $300.00 - $600.00 per pound. So, let's say you have 400 pickers at $300.00 each for permits, which equals $12,000.00 in permits. If each picker picks only one pound per day for 30 days at $300.00 per pound market price, that equals $9000.000 per picker. Multiply that by 400 pickers and you're looking at $3,600,000.00. Subtract a little overhead and you're still looking at a lot of profit made from our mushrooms. Now that's just the rough math on 400 pickers. The Forest service is actually estimating 1500-2500 commercial pickers. My calculator nor my little brain can do that kind of math.

I don't have a problem with anyone making a profit, what I have a problem with is the fact that our mountains will be swarming with commercial pickers leaving nothing for the local working guy that can only go out on the weekends because we have to go to work and pay our taxes that support the Forest Service that is giving it all to the money men.

The Forest Service is not going to allow any camping in any of the burned areas and the only parking allowed in these areas is on the main roads. This means that Idaho City, Lowman and Garden Valley are going to be inundated with these people, their crimes and their trash.

Concerning the commercial pickers, Sheriff Kaczmarek has stated to the County Commissioners that "it brings a lot of crime with it". The Sheriff has requested and the Commissioners have approved the purchase of an $11,825.00 Yurt to use as an incident command center and sustained presence. He also requested additional law enforcement man power during this picking season, stating "it's not just a couple weeks". Who's paying for all of this? We the county tax payers, that's who. As far as I know, the Forest Service has done nothing and offered nothing to help out with this influx of people and crime. Their only concern is the money they will make from permits.

These are our mountains, our Forest, our towns, and our mushrooms.

I also learned that Russia is the largest exporter of Morel Mushrooms. Who woulda thunk.

Celebrate the Tradition

Family Style Independence Day in Crouch

Written by Janet Juroch

Crouch -- The Greater Garden Valley Chamber of Commerce along with the City of Crouch and local businesses are welcoming the changes in the Fourth of July plans this year. The theme Celebrate the Tradition is a more like a hometown party with many more events that are family friendly. As plans proceed, the Chamber will be urging families to come and see a "new style of the Fourth of July" in Crouch.

Many events will stay the same as the Chamber has sponsored the daytime events for years. There will be the 6:00pm parade in town and the Chamber's grand fireworks display that starts at dusk. There will be an event map distributed for everyone to see the where the City Ordinance does not allow discharge of fireworks and where there will be safe and sane legal fireworks allowed. This map will also give everyone an idea where the events will be held, which is especially useful to the out of town guests.

The Chamber has given $4500 to Mountain Skyscapes to put on a spectacular fireworks display this year due to the generous donations carried over from last year. That is $2000 more than two years ago, or any other show (except last years) which was the same amount. People who watched the show last year could see the difference of a broader and more expanded display in the night sky.

At 1:00pm there will be a River Raft Race sponsored by Idaho X-Sports and Idaho Whitewater Unltd. The Duck Races will be at 4:00pm and sponsored by Mountain America Credit Union. Organizations are working on sponsoring more games in town as fundraisers for their groups. It is not too late to have groups join in with games for fundraising ideas on the 4th.

A favorite start of the day is at the Garden Valley Senior Center Pancake Breakfast from 8-11am. The flag raising, sponsored by GV Properties, will kick off the day at 9:00am. Families will be able to head to Weilmunster Park with free Kids Games in the Park. Lots of prizes and often wet and wild games can be found there.

An evening street dance event, featuring Dusty Leigh and the Claim Jumpers, will have evening performances. Following the parade, a new event is the Soap Box Derby styled car race on Old Crouch Road. Idaho X-Sports is the contact for this event and has all the information to participate or sponsor a car.

There are plans still being finalized to expand the 4th of July events. Music in the Park is another GGVCC sponsored event for Saturday, July 1st. Allreds Adventures is working with the Parks and Recreation District to have vendors and events filling Weilmunster Park July 1st till the afternoon of the Booths and games for all ages will be set up July 4th in town and the park.

4th. This will coincide with Music in the Park and other game events on the 4th.

Downtown Crouch will no longer allow discharge of ANY FIREWORKS. There are some alternative solutions however provided by private citizens, so please contact Scott Leslie from Castle Mt. Homes 462-2882 Scott@cmhgv.com or Darl Allred from Allred's Adventures 462-3416 darl@frontiernet.net for more information. The Chamber ONLY provides the end of the evening Fireworks show along with the fun filled day for Friends and Families to enjoy, the Chamber does not encourage, endorse or condone the use of illegal fireworks.

The Starlight Theater Continues to Delight

Eighteenth Seasons of Star Performances

Written by Janet Juroch

Garden Valley -- Another wonderful year of Starlight Mountain Theater is about to begin. This summer stock theater is a gem in Garden Valley. This will be the eighteenth year and going stronger than ever with determination to keep the theater open. There are new musicals and Starlight Mountain Theatre is the culmination of a life-long dream of R. Ed Davis and his wife, Jan, who is a choreographer. Ed spent seven years pursuing an M.F.A. Degree in Theatre.

Ed Davis now wants to give back to Boise County residents by planning to offer deep discounts using a driver's license to show proof of residence in the county. Starlight wants everyone in the county to come and enjoy the open air theater by making it affordable for the local audience.

Every May the Davis' hold their breath as the new season begins. They remember their first year in 2000 when a handful of people would come to the shows. Then as word got around they were able to fill the theater often. Working as a non-profit, they are able to stay afloat and pay small wages to the aspiring actors and actresses.

It takes a lot to make the magic of theater come alive. Tina Hunsaker sews new costumes. Her big task this year is preparing for Beauty and the Beast. She has closely held secrets to the Beast costume and devises ways to keep actors cool in some of the heavier costumes, too. Her costumes complete the magic and character of the shows. Tina says she always appreciates donations of vintage clothing, fabric and especially fabric notions.

Sets are created by some of the workers that you will never see. Sets have to be simple enough to move quickly on and off the stage. Painting and sawing in front of the Starlight office has set creators bringing designs to life. One set designer used to be a summer stock actress and found she preferred being in the background creating the sets.

Many of the actors and actresses come from all over the country and use summer stock as a stepping stone to further the aspirations of being on Broadway. One of the prominent actors who will be in all six musicals is Roy Nichols the 3rd. He looks to honing his craft and maybe becoming "the next Hugh Jackman or being on Broadway." He admits, "I look forward to the fun we have every year. The actors live here in the trailers they set up for us. We become like family."

Besides the musical favorite such as Seven Brides for Seven Brothers, last year's knock it out of the park favorite, Sugar, is also returning. A new addition for only six performances in July is Starlight After Dark featuring Little Shop of Horrors, which is for a more adult audience. This show can be seen as a separate entry or stay for a double feature.

This gives a lowdown of the musicals starting dates with shows overlapping dates, too. Opening night on May 27 at 5:00pm is Seven Brides for Seven Brothers, which includes dinner and a Meet and Greet the Actors. Beauty and the Beast is new this year and tickets are selling fast already. This musical opens June 10. Guys and Dolls opens June 24. On the Fourth of July weekend of July 1st, 3rd and 4th is Always..... Patsy Cline. A favorite, Sugar; the Some Like it Hot musical, opens August 12.

A calendar and event rates and discount information are available on the website www.starlightmt.com or call 208-462-5523 or on their Facebook page. Boise County residents may be getting deep discounts with proof of county residence using driver's license.

BOISE COUNTY

BOISE COUNTY COMMISSIONERS' MEETING

Transcribed by Eileen Capson

May 2, 2017

"We really need to plan this well, so this is not a disaster. Not only for Garden Valley, but for all of Boise County. It's a real blessing to us, because this will be the biggest thing, probably ever in our lives," said Jason Sawin, Idaho X-Sports and Garden Valley Chamber of Commerce. He suggested following the Mass Gathering process for the eclipse in August, as a community. "We're identifying other locations in Garden Valley, where we can put hundreds to thousands of people." There is some question as to how this is to be funded, per business infrastructure, including help from the county with toilets and trash receptacles. Stanley is expected to have up to 50,000 people. "This is maybe going to make the 4th of July look small." Swain recommended going to the state to help fund this event.

John Delvalle, Chief of the Garden Valley Fire Department, is trying to "entice more firefighters and more EMTs" and "bolster our ability to respond through that 3 and 4-day period." He was concerned that the eclipse will be during the peak of fire the season, and there are expected to be many more people out in the forest.

Sheriff Jim Kaczmarek said the Idaho State Police have offered to help with accidents along Highways 55, 17 and 21. He said a Disaster Declaration will be prepared, "in case we do reach that point," to call out more resources. He added that with the limited amount of sky, with the mountains, that folks, "are targeting other places. We're going to plan for the best that we can for these things." Greg Alexander, Garden Valley School Superintendent/Principal, said they canceled school which was to begin on August 21st and will be having a speaker come. They will be selling glasses to help the science fund, have concessions, and potentially offer camping out in their meadow.

Robert Showalter, Boise County Emergency Manager, said that because Garden Valley is in the "path of totality," they are expected to have more people. Commissioner Laura Baker was concerned for people needing to travel through Horseshoe Bend and said, "On normal holidays, there is a lot of road rage where it drops from 2 lanes to 1. There's miles of backup just for Memorial Day Weekend, and there's going to be some serious traffic issues there."

Showalter recommended that the public be prepared to for the worst-case scenario of being stuck in traffic for hours, and have a full tank of gas, water, food and medical kits in their cars.

It was said by John Roberts, former Emergency Manager, that with a full tank of gas, folks from Boise were likely to be head up into the mountains to see the eclipse.

Rhonda Jameson, an Idaho City business owner of Simply Fun, commented that Idaho City would have about 50 seconds of darkness during the total eclipse.

Roberts commented, "I don't see any activities that look they're qualifying for a mass gathering, at this time."

Chief Delvalle said they have been "brainstorming" in their meetings, "to try and figure out, what are all the little things that we're missing here. We're trying to address medical. We're trying to address fire. We're trying to address the traffic issues, sanitation, and one of them that came up was... August 21st will probably be a pretty hot day, and so we're anticipating we're going to have a lot of river usage and for my agency, we've already formed a cooperative," with a river guide outfit. "The point that I'm trying to make is that I still think that we're missing some things." He said there were other issues like the 6,000 mushroom pickers, but that event should be over.

Chairman Ward said, "It sounds like we need money. We need traffic control, sheriff's support, EMS support, dumpsters..."

Sheriff Kaczmarek responded that his department had the preplanning pretty much in hand. He advised, "There's going to be a couple of periods where you're going to have gridlock... We're going to be competing with the other 7 counties across the state."

Mitchel Tain spoke about a central point, such as a county web page, for information.

Swain asked what the Garden Valley Chamber could do. He suggested a plan for this expected mass gathering. Chairman Ward suggested that Swain tell the Board how much room there was available, and the Board would "work with you to do it." The mass gathering process will be used for the Chamber, so that the county will have a better idea as to where and how many people will be in one place. These places can be identified.

Jayne Reed said she was okay with landowners opening up their private land, but was not okay with taxpayers paying for toilets and trash removal.

Roberts added that mitigation was about 1/4 of the cost of a response.

Chairman Alan Ward asked if Lowman had any plans. There was no response and he added, "I guess that the people that don't care or aren't going to be involved in it are going to get what they get, and get left with what they get left with. There's not much we can do about it. It sounds like a lot of the people are going to be out on the National Forest. That's the National Forest's responsibilities, not the taxpayers in the county responsibility. It's a very odd thing. I hope it's not as ugly as it sounds like it's going to be. It sounds like it has some potential to be pretty ugly."

Showalter suggested to county residents that they block off any area they don't want cars to park in.

The next meeting on the Solar Eclipse with the Board of County Commissioners will be held at 1:15pm on May 16th in the Commissioners' Room.

The Horseshoe Bend community gathered to support the HSB Junior Class of 2018 at a pancake breakfast on Saturday May 6 in the school annex. Organized by Patty Ghramm, owner of The White Horse Mercantile, who helped with procuring supplies, the class raised over $300 to help pay for their senior trip. Diners were treated to pancakes with all the fixings, link sausage, scrambled eggs, home fries, juice and coffee. Participating students from the Junior class were Rachel Houle, Gavin Miller, Garrett Moore, Wyatt Smith, and Sami Sturm. Parents Kristin Houle and Tracey Sturm helped the students with cooking and set up. Ghramm hopes to have several pancake breakfasts in the future to help school groups and other non profit community members raise funds. Look for the Horseshoe Bend Parent Teacher organization's breakfast next month.
