HORSESHOE BEND -- Two unrelated accidents caused a major traffic backup throughout Horseshoe Bend on Sunday, June 30. The Horseshoe Bend Fire Department responded to a non-injury single car roll-over on Highway 52 and a single motorcycle accident on Highway 55, milepost 65. The driver of the motorcycle, BradLee Goeckner, was transported to Saint Alphonsus Regional Medical Center in Boise by Life Flight. Goeckner is a member of the Lewiston Combat Veteran Motorcycle Association (CVMA) and was returning from the CVMA National meet in Boise when the accident occurred. According to witnesses, Goeckner was forced off the road by another car. Family members stated that he sustained a punctured lung, broken ribs, a fractured shoulder, and knee injuries. The accident occurred around 11:00 a.m. and traffic was backed up on the north and south bound 55 for several hours.

Firehouse Addition in Placerville

By Georgene Thomas

PLACERVILLE -- Placerville Fire Department has a new rescue truck. They found this vehicle in Cape Cod, Massachusetts where it was donated. The Fire Department had it shipped and after adding $5,000 of parts and equipment, now it's ready to operate.

The vehicle has a new winch which can handle over 16 tons, and it has been equipped with a specialized communications system which can connect with police, fire, and HAM radio operators. This Rescue truck has the "jaws of life"; an AED defibrillator which works automatically on patients; and has facilities to transport victims.

The fire crew has added specific equipment to their rescue truck which they can use to stabilize vehicles when they are in dangerous positions, such as hanging on the sides of mountains, so they can rescue victims safely.

The Placerville Fire Department also has a Rescue 2 ATV called "Rambo" which is a MV7 built with steel plates, two winches and two gas tanks, and can travel through terrain quickly to rescue people and vehicles.

Horseshoe Bend's City Council Meeting #666

Written by Tracy Koslosky
HORSESHOE BEND --

The following is a synopsis of the Horseshoe Bend City Council's 666th meeting on June 19, 2019. After the call to order and the recital of the Pledge of Allegiance, council member Ben Riley made a motion to change the order to the night's agenda by moving the public comments, and an action item brought by Venita Olsen pertaining to Ordinance 257 and Mayor Pat Goff's possible amendment of Ordinance 257, before the budget workshop. The change was approved unanimously by the council. Also approved unanimously were the previous minutes, and the authorization to pay the city's bills. Mayor Pat Goff then opened with new business.

Marty White was appointed by Mayor Goff to fill the vacancy left by former council member Ryan Stirm (Stirm is now a Boise County Commissioner, having been appointed to the position last month by Governor Brad Little). White was unanimously approved by the council and immediately sworn in by the city clerk, Gina Elmer.

After several public comments regarding Ordinance 257, the ordinance was repealed and replaced by Ordinance 258 -- in title only. The new ordinance will be drafted in the near future utilizing a public workshop.

Goff suggested that the city hire a new full time public works employee. Cooper agreed but added, "We need to have a good job description." During the budget workshop, new council member White stated, "We take in only $120 a year in dog licenses." Cooper responded that, "We don't have anyone to enforce it" (the dog license ordinance). To which Goff replied, "We need to get the ordinance done."

There was some talk among the council about Valley View Chevron profiting off the solid waste dumping of RVs. The council agreed to check and see what other cities do in regards to this matter.

The property owned by the city near the bridge on Highway 55 may be used as a staging area when the new bridge construction begins, which would bring some money into the city's coffers.

White brought up how the city is paying more this year than last for police coverage, while the money brought in from fines was "pretty low." Council member Curtis Corvinus stated, "If they want us to pay, they had better start enforcing our ordinances." Goff told the council that Idaho City pays for their own Police Chief and two part-time deputies. Goff offered that the council should "look into not renewing the contract for the next year and save $75,000," adding that "Crouch, Garden Valley, Placerville, and Centerville don't pay for these services" from the Sheriff's Department.

Employees of the city will get a standard 3% increase in wages for the 2020 fiscal year, but Goff wants to see them receive a salary more in line with what other cities of the same size are paying their employees. The council agreed in theory and Goff will gather numbers to present to the council.

There was some discussion about selling the extraction truck to the Fire Department. EMS Department representative Michele Brothers reported that there were seven runs this month to date and that the ambulance's air conditioning was not working, that a new circuit was ordered to repair it for $600. The engine is going to be reprogrammed to hopefully eliminate a "glitch".

Brothers also provided an update for the Public Works Department telling the council, "We're getting some stuff done, we're getting meters in, working on weeds, with those serving community service sentences. Brothers told the council that she was looking to purchase a used riding mower to replace the city's, which was "on its last gasp."

Council member Teresa Cooper wants public works to procure and post "No Parking" on street signs for Nolan and Madison because of the amount of vehicles that are currently parking on the street. Cooper said it was "so emergency vehicles can get through."

Council member Riley wants letters sent to residents with overgrown properties. Goff said he would have an attorney draft a blanket statement letter then can be sent to offenders. Cooper suggested that a weed control notice be sent with the water bill.

Civil Engineer, Amy Woodruff, reported that Barreto Industries is getting ready to start business at the old mill and that they are requesting a letter of commitment from the city.

She went on to say that the companies which were going to bid on the new city well backed out, so they are looking for new companies to bid.

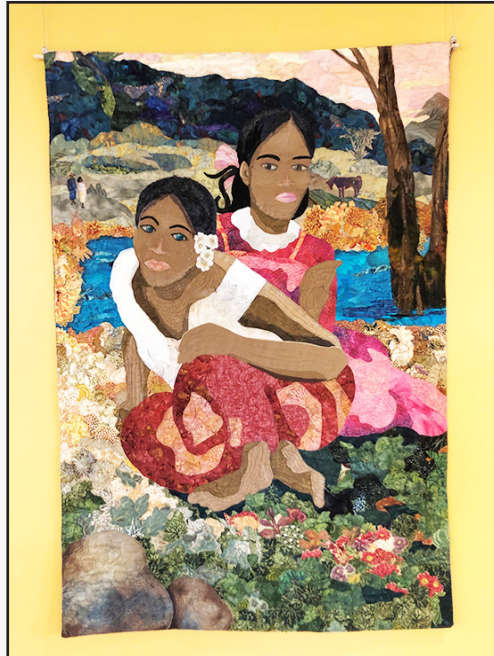

The improvements to Madison Road should start after July 4th, and the Highway 55 bridge build should begin in September. Woodruff suggested an increase to the summer use charge for water, in excess of 3000 gallons, and the council agreed to a public hearing next month to discuss rate increases.

The city attorney spoke of the, "End of July, August, September" ordinances to be completed and wants the council to schedule a workshop to go over them.

There was a brief conversation regarding having Brothers and Jobie Catherman become certified as Code Enforcement Officers in order to enforce city ordinance violations.

The meeting went into executive session at 9:02 p.m. The City Council meets next on July 17 at 7:00 p.m.

BOISE COUNTY*Get Ready for Wildfire Season

By Rick Murray, Faculty Member of the The National Fire Academy

BOISE COUNTY -- We truly are fortunate to live in paradise... but that has a double meaning. It captures the wonderful place we live, as well as that we live in an area just like Paradise, California that was destroyed by wildfire last year.

"Paradise and surrounding area are in a Pine forest, the ground was littered with pine needles. Ponderosa Pines drop about 1/3 of their needles each year...even those who had 'raked' their yards had a new fuel bed due to the wind." The Butte County "Camp Fire" – observations from the scene of California's deadliest wildfire

https://community.nfpa.org/community/fire-break/blog/2019/01/28/the-butte-county-camp-fire-observations-from-the-scene-of-california-s-deadliest-wildfire?utm\_source=newsl&utm\_medium=email&utm\_campaign=newsl0005&order\_src=c365

Technically, we live in a Wildland/Urban Interface (WUI pronounced "woo-e"). That refers to homes in the woods or grasslands that are susceptible to wildland fires. In the past two years, wildfires have cost more than 100 lives and $25 Billion dollars in property losses.

What can we do to protect our homes?

There is no doubt we live in a WUI! Given our location we must protect our homes as best we can. We all should conduct a property audit. The home owner's survey questions below are taken from the new Firewise USA Community Wildfire Risk Assessment guide: <https://www.nfpa.org/-/media/Files/Firewise/Get-started/FirewiseCommAssess.ashx?la=en>

Home Owner's Survey

Factors to consider about your home:

1. Is your roof composed of composite shingles, metal, cement tile, or clay?
2. Are your soffit vents non-combustible and screened to allow air to flow to the attic or the space below roof sheathing?
3. Is your siding stucco, masonry products, plaster, or cement?
4. Does your home have non-combustible material used around the bottom of the home and decks to protect the underside from exposure?
5. Are things that attach to your home made of wood or non-combustible materials? Non-combustible materials include decks made with wood-plastic composites, higher density tropical hardwood, or fire retardant treated decking materials. Don't forget about fences that attach directly to the siding of your home. They should be made of non-combustible material too.

6. Are your gutters made of metal? Are leaf litter and pine needles removed from your roof and gutters?

The property surrounding your home should be assessed in three zones: immediate, intermediate, and extended. Each zone has certain factors for you to consider.

The immediate zone, 0 to 5 feet from your home:

1. Are there dead vegetation, dried leaves, pine needles, and/or ground debris near your home?
2. Have you used hardscape around the perimeter of your home so you can keep the area immediately next to your home free of litter and debris?
3. Do you have wood mulch products near your home or has it been replaced with non-combustible material like stone?
4. Do you have trees or shrubs next to your home?
5. Are there tree branches overhanging your roof or within 10 feet of your chimneys?

The intermediate zone, 5 to 30 feet from your home:

1. Are there fuel breaks such as driveways, walkways, and non-combustible patios between your home and grass or trees?
2. Are lawns, native grasses, trees and shrubs maintained so they are moist and lawns at a height of 4 inches or less?
3. Are trees and shrubs in this area limited to small clusters with trees spaced at a minimum of 18 feet between crowns?
4. Have trees been pruned between 6 to 10 feet so ground fires cannot reach the branches and crowns?

The extended zone, 30 feet to a minimum of 100 feet or even better 200 feet:

1. Are there heavy accumulations of ground litter, like old pine needles, that can smolder and allow a wildfire to spread underground or reach the root systems of trees and shrubs?
2. Are there dead plants and tree material that should be removed?
3. Are outbuildings in this zone maintained with their own zones of safety just like your home?
4. Have ladder fuels been removed like mature trees having small conifers and brush growing between them?
5. Do trees 30 to 60 feet from the home have at least 12 feet between canopy tops? Is there at least 6 feet between canopy tops of trees located 60 to 100 feet from your home?

Some other factors you should consider:

1. Water supply for fire response and hydrant locations
- The water supply in our rural area is always a concern for your fire department. All departments have water tenders, trucks that carry water to the fire scene. In addition to these tenders, you should be aware of alternative water supplies around your home. If you live near a creek or pond or have a swimming pool, these could be great sources of water. You should be able to tell firefighters the locations of these sources of water. If you own the access to these sources, you should think about how the fire trucks could access the source and develop easy access.

2. Ingress/egress routes

Fire trucks are BIG and need space to have ingress, possible turning areas, and egress. Fire departments are not going to commit fire apparatus and firefighters to locations that pose significant risk of loss of life because a truck can't get in and out quickly in the case of an emergency. Look at your property. Can a fire truck get in and out quickly if necessary? If not, what can you do to improve ingress and egress?

3. Street signs and address numbers

I cannot over-emphasize the importance of being able to read street addresses quickly and from all approaches to the home. It really can slow down a response when we are looking for 23 Willow Lane and we can only find 2 Willow Lane and the next home with an address is 47 Willow Lane. We now know which side of the street the home is on, but can pass by the home more than once in our search for the exact location. Street addresses on cute little plaques on your front porch may be hard to find and are especially hard to read at night. Reflective numbers at the head of your driveway are the easiest way for us to find you quickly, especially when you and all your neighbors have so identified your homes. When finding you in an emergency "cute" doesn't count.

4. Check your home owner's fire insurance policy. Is it up to date regarding the replacement value of your home? Are your recent home improvements reflected in that value?

Be a good neighbor

The town of Paradise, California had a residential population that tended to be aged and somewhat disabled. Many of our communities have similar vulnerable populations. Be a good neighbor:

1. Be a buddy, connect with your neighbors who may need assistance and make a plan.
2. As part of the plan make sure vulnerable residents have a go-bag with anything they need to have with them, like prescriptions, to reduce the time it will take for them to leave their home. Don't forget a go-bag for pets.
3. Find, or form, a group who can help vulnerable residents with wildfire safety-focused yard work. Taking the survey but not doing the mitigation work is useless.

Mexican and Asian Cuisine? New Fusion Restaurant Features Both

By Marlene Partridge

GARDEN VALLEY -- It all started about a year ago, when Mark Amundson and Jennifer Llewellyn were comparing notes about their experiences in the food industry. One thing they agreed on was that Garden Valley needed more variety in their menu choices. There was, for instance, not a single Asian, nor Mexican restaurant. They could see a need for a restaurant offering those kinds of fare. Also, Garden Valley needed a restaurant with food in the $9.00 to $14.00 range. Fast food, at a cheaper price, points to a need for more economical meals. They determined that Garden Valley really needed a mid-priced restaurant, serving something different. Their ideas were starting to take shape.

Everything started to come together when they were talking about serving new kinds and new combinations of food being offered as a "fusion-style" restaurant, like in the Boise area. Mark had been cooking varieties of Asian food for about eight years and his "Asian Nights" were very popular. The more they talked about it, the more excitement it was generating. They reached a point where it was time to stop just talking about it and start doing it.

First, of course, came finding a location and figuring out how to pay for it. One stumbling block they found was that other businesses in Crouch were "grand-fathered in," with respect to the rules and regulations that govern restaurants in Idaho. A new one would need to meet all of the new standards, and that would be expensive. This one requirement put them at a disadvantage from the beginning. Fixtures, the supplies, employees, and utilities had to be planned and accounted for. The Mexican room and the Asian room got distinctive decorations. (Don't worry, you can order what you want in either room.)

Once the nuts and bolts were worked out, and they were successful in finding a suitable space to house the necessary equipment, the progress seemed incredibly fast. A varied and enticing menu was created, mainly by the partner in charge of Cuisine, Mark Amundson. He came up with mouth-watering dishes, inspired by Mexican favorites and Asian favorites, in mind with combining the two.

The menu at the Fusion features your traditional Mexican fare, such as Enchiladas and Street Tacos. And they serve traditional Asian: Hand-rolled

Choose your cuisine -- The Asian Room

Spring Rolls and Chicken Chow Mein. And they have some items that are "fused": Mexican stir-fry and Orange Chicken Burritos! They have Southwestern Egg Rolls, Teriyaki Tacos, and Green Tea Ice Cream.

When the cooking started, the fragrance was noticed all over town. People began walking in off the street begging to buy food. Now, the whole town is invited. Fusion is open for business!

EARLY SETTLERS OF UPPER PAYETTE, PART III GARDEN VALLEY ~ THE OSTNER FAMILY

WRITTEN BY JERRY BRANSON ~ HISTORIAN

Charles Ostner

The earliest settler in Upper Payette was Charles Ostner. He came to Upper Payette in 1863.

Charles Ostner was in Germany in 1808. He had an education in arts and sciences. He went to the gold fields in California first. He married Julia Armbruster in San Francisco. She was also from Germany. She remained in San Francisco with relatives while Ostner went to the Northern Idaho gold fields in 1862. Ostner came down to Florence and went south with Packer John in 1863. Somewhere along the path with Packer John, likely in southern Round Valley, Ostner got lost. He wandered for many days. Packer John went up the Middle fork when he got to Alder Creek. He found Ostner at Hard Scrabble above Garden Valley. They returned to the South Fork of the Payette.

He left Ostner at the mouth of Alder Creek where Ostner obtained a house and the toll bridge from the owner of each, a man named Thompson in 1863. I think that was likely a fur trapper.

In early 1864, he sent for his family in San Francisco. They had a hard trip from San Francisco to Portland and on to Placerville. They moved in with Charles soon after and began the task of settling in. The family settled in across the old bridge, which is now fairly new. But neither parents were farmers or ranchers, nor was Mrs. Ostner a very good artist. Charles began with cutting down a tree next to the Alder Creek road on the west side in 1864. He began a carving out of the wood to make a statue. Word got to Idaho City before he completed the wood statue. Charles worked by candle light while his children watched, as was recalled by Nellie Ireton Mills. He had a son, Albert, and two daughters who held the candle light. The two daughters were Julie and Emma, as was told by Nellie Ireton Mills. Actually, his kids were quite young to be holding candles. Louise was considerably older. In 1864, Albert was only two years old, and Emma was three years old. When the sculpture was begun, Clara was newly born. The older two most likely just watched dad at work until bed time as Julie and Clara were born in Upper Payette between 1864 and 1869. Also, the statue was finished in 1869.

Since a lot has been published concerning the statue carved by Ostner, I am not going to include much except that he did complete the statue and donated it to the state in Boise. He received a payment of $7000 and the statue remains in the state capital building in Boise.

Upper Payette was not the place for Charles Ostner. He soon left the area. He sold his Upper Payette place to Tom Young and moved to Boise. Even that was not enough for his desire for of civilization. As soon as he was assured compensation for his statue in Boise, he moved to San Francisco. He returned to Boise in 1868 and began a lithograph store. He then roamed the US and Alaska until 1900, when he returned to Boise again. Thereafter, he was placed in the asylum in Blackfoot on August 9, 1912. He died and was buried in Morris Hill cemetery in 1913. Wife Julia Armbruster Ostner is also buried in Morris Hill cemetery in Boise. She died on May 8, 1915.

Louise remained in California and passed away there. She never came to Idaho to live. She was raised by her aunt.

Son, Albert, married Esther Lacefls (spelling questionable) in 1916. Albert died in 1959 and is buried also in Morris Hill cemetery.

One daughter of Charles' was Emma, born in California in 1864 before the family moved to Idaho. She died April 25, 1940 and was buried in Morris Hill.

Another daughter was Julia. She died April 1, 1955. She was also likely buried in Mor-

The land where the Ostners lived, but the old house is gone. West end of the Ostner ranch. By Jerry Branson ris Hill.

There was another daughter, Clara. She was evidently born in Upper Payette but no further details exist.

Charles was an artist and a traveler. No evidence remains for other art projects he created and where his many ventures took him. He was not in the asylum for very long. The dates are very close together. No evidence exists regarding why he was placed there. In those days, asylums internments were seldom ever detailed.
